

STATEMENT OF PARTICIPATION IN THE EDITORIAL TEAM OF INTERPARADIGMAS JOURNAL

Cecília Oderich

Participating in the editorial team of Interparadigmas Journal was, for me, an experience of great evolutionary value. For a few years, I was connected to an affinity group with which I enjoyed having productive meetings and discussions. My availability at the time was restricted; Even so, I dedicated hours a week to the proposed work, both editing and preparing, and executing the Interparadigmas Census, conducting or participating in lives, general planning meetings, and the event celebrating the Journal's 10th anniversary. These years were about resuming a deeper connection with the Consciential Paradigm, which made me gradually return to a more intense and active volunteering.

I also want to highlight the remarkable experience of presenting the theme Borders, organizational movements and multidimensionality, in a live broadcast from Behind the Scenes of the Thesis (03/12/2022). In addition to the experience on the date of presentation, the previous reflection for preparation required me to revisit my doctorate experiences and I was able to make an in-depth assessment with a multidimensional and multiexistential perspective.

During the period in which I volunteered at Interparadigmas, I had many signs and paraperceptions that encouraged me to carry out multi-existential research and to carry out the CPC-Consecutivus Personality College, from Consecutivus. I faced the challenge, through the ambiguous emotions, of reconnecting with the past. I can say that, throughout the period, I exercised an integrative vision, of movement, of flexibility, expanding the understanding of inter-assistance flows. I better understood the movements of connecting and disconnecting in multi-existential processes.

With all of this, I observed an increase in the demand for assistance and life management, with a feeling of "broader shoulders". I think that my tendency to travel with different groups has expanded and qualified. Ultimately, it was an evolutionary and pleasurable experience of intraphysical and extraphysical team working, of cohesion, strengthening good bonds of friendship.
